

voice one of the girls cried out father I jumped. He was lying. It was just one week sooner than he was expected.

Mr. Swift is expected home this week Bro. Charles will probably start two weeks from this eve. The school communes next Wed. Mr. Sibley has moved into Mr. Edson's house Mr. Bingham is expected to day John Crowbridge's wife died Sat. morn & was buried yesterday. I never saw her but presume her trouble the same as carried off Mrs. Taylor Mr. Dale & Abby Hoar, ulceration of the throat & bronchial tubes from neglected catarrh. She gave birth to a premature babe 2 or 3 days before she expired that all her & babe's should be buried with her in the cemetery & it was done Poor John is unfortunate.

I wish she still without a girl she must have her hands fully think a great deal about being for all & the other habits, I'll be most wit till I see the thing at home comes. I think you felt her another place
agreed about it.
pleasure in the
which I try not to think her mind
about it.
The sheet is full so with love to all & to mother
good night to her
your father
Mother

to the ground to the Pears, the ones are rotting on the ground
The others are not quite ripe but are very large & nice
I am trying to see some but did do much fast week on my dress. I shall try to get every thing ready so that we can start as soon as Uncle
E. finishes his visit.

Hessie Houston expects to go to school & board with Fervish Bill Hobbs has been out to Elda is in town here not send her Will Wright boards with them while in B. The C. Wright has given back his place to Mrs G.
They will remain till next Mary Coe's still having a nice time may remain till her to the ground to the Pears,

ones are rotting on the ground
The others are not quite ripe
but are very large & nice
I am trying to
see some but did do much
fast week on my dress. I shall
try to get every thing ready so that
we can start as soon as Uncle
E. finishes his visit.